Dear Inquiry,

There are problems with charging EVs in apartment complexes.

There is seldom any wiring to individual parking spaces from the owner's meter. Providing this is expensive. Alternatively a ring main can be provided by the body corp to individual credit card chargers. This is equally expensive.

The result is most Owners Corporations are not making any decision until they know what government assistance might be forthcoming.

There has to be a solution for apartments which are becoming more common in the ACT.

Regards,

Chris Emery
