Write Your Submission Here: Human rights are a reflection of our values as a community. Their power lies not in being written down in law, but in people's ability to obtain justice if they are violated. If the remedies available for the violation of rights are not accessible to everyone, then they are not really human rights. That is why I strongly support more effective, accessible remedies for breaches of the ACT Human Rights Act. Improving people's access to remedies will ensure the ACT Human Rights ACT lives up to true intent.
