What an overwhelming sense of relief it will be to know that in ones end time to be in the care of compassionate caring professionals such as the ones practising in the Canberra Hospice run by the Little Company of Mary.

Have you watched the Australian film of the Last Cab to Darwin? It shows how even that last 15 seconds before the exit button is pushed Michael Catton ripped out his voluntary tubes and headed straight for the people who meant everything to him in his life. Even that amount of life is precious & critical.

Having seen the hospice run by the Little Company of Mary one can see the difference between a hospice & hospital as run by them other than any other administrations.

We have all paid our taxes in our working lives and made a good contribution to society. Australia is still the lucky country so all we ask for of our ACT Government is not to deny us that time unless one wants to which is another discussion.
