Dear Committee

I love the way our city is unspoiled by the crass advertising which is generally in your face in other Australian cities. It differentiates us and is a genuine outworking of our values by not opening ourselves up to the stereotypes (both blatant and subtle) that are carried within advertising.

I believe we should send a message and take a stand by refusing to be bribed by the money - let's not be 'ordinary' and lowest common denominator like other places. I want Canberra to be original and better than that.

Please say no to public advertising (and let's get rid of those useless bus ad 'shelters' too!) Meg Blackman
