To whom it may concern

I have been a law abiding firearm owner since early 2000 and now think the government is failing us because we as shooters have not done anything wrong but we are set to loose tools of our trade, hobby, or even family heirlooms because the nsw police issued licenses to non citizens. When the Bondi stabbing happened you didn't ban knives if someone is killed by a car we don't ban cars so this looks like it is just to persecute shooters. If it will make the public safer why don't you take the guns off the police as they will no longer need them.

We know the shooters at Bondi had more firearms than what they took so what good does limiting the numbers do if you can't use multiple at a time but to someone who does multiple disciplines of club shooting and different styles of pest control it will make a big difference.

Does the future of Australia look better with more pests because the farmers don't have time to do it and the government won't do it. The reality is the good people of Canberra are travelling around Australia controlling pest for land owners and farmers even if we live in the city.

I urge you to reconsider I don't know anyone that thinks this will make a better Australia it just is another way to control us when we have been good already
