Also I guess that is more of a policy sort of question for the minister, what can we do to actually see a shift in the numbers because the numbers are not changing the presentations, the effect of this on the community. There has been a big change I think amongst the younger generation, certainly in our attitudes towards this area. People are more willing to seek out specialist help, but it is just not coming off the incidents and the effect yet and if we really want to see change there have got to be some measurables.	01-Jul-14	Gallagher	p. 43
