Further Details of the Incident	A child in the preschool was flicking a tree branch (about 40-50 cm) from the ground. It flicked him in the left eye. First aid was administered and the parent was called. A cold compress was applied as the child could not open his eye fully. Mum took her son to the doctors. He has superficial scratches to his cornea and some trauma/bleeding on the white part of his eye. Drops were prescribed as a precaution to prevent infection. School has followed up twice with the family.
